The picture I shared is a young man named Carter Hodges who we have been working with. Carter has been in trouble with the law and in the middle of a few gang feuds. He's a smart young man and recently had a daughter. Carter is ready to turn his life around, he attended one of our financial fundamentals courses in the past and was the first out of this cohort to receive his drivers license. He is working now and plans to use his license to get a better paying job or career. We are proud of this young man and we have faith he will stay on the right track.
