Westinghouse HBCU Fall Flyer.pdf

We're thrilled to host our Back to School Jam in August & HBCU College Tour this October! These events are key in our mission to create economic mobility, promote post-secondary education & offer youth alternatives to violence. The Jam provides students with resources for the school year, while the College Tour opens doors to higher education, inspiring them to pursue their dreams. By empowering our youth with these opportunities, we're helping them build brighter, violence-free futures.

PROGRESS*

Please provide an update on the progress of your program or project, as outlined in your proposal and goal sheets.

P4:247 CommUNITY has successfully recruited youth and begun fitness training, tech education, and leadership activities.

IMPACT*

Please describe the impact of your program or project on violence in your neighborhood(s).

We've seen a noticeable decrease in violent incidents among participants. Youth involved in the program are developing leadership skills, fostering a sense of responsibility, and actively contributing to safer, more connected communities.

Share Your Stories

Share any stories that illustrate your progress or significant milestones in your project, program, or organization.

Feel free to provide any links to social media posts or to upload flyers or other promotional materials.

One of the most significant success stories from P4:247 CommUNITY is Roman's journey. Roman joined our program as a youth at risk of being drawn into violence, struggling to find a path forward. Through our violence prevention initiatives, Roman was introduced to the Best Buy Teen Tech Center@Phase4, where he developed an interest in technology. With guidance from our mentors, Roman pursued a certification in cybersecurity, a field he had never considered before. Roman's dedication paid off when he obtained his certification. This marked a personal victory & opened doors to economic mobility that were previously out of reach. He has secured a job in the tech industry, allowing him to build a stable future for himself & avoiding the cycles of violence that once threatened his life. Roman's story is a testament to the power of providing at-risk youth with opportunities for growth and development.
